NAMIBIA

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC) commemorates the 1.7 million Commonwealth servicemen and women who died in the two World Wars. We operate worldwide in over 150 countries & territories at 23,000 locations.
The majority of the Commonwealth war dead commemorated in Namibia died during operations in World War 1. Burials vary from medium size military plots in municipal cemeteries to singleton graves on farmland. In most of the cemeteries Commonwealth and German casualties are buried side by side. Prominent sites can be found in Windhoek, Swakopmund, Aus, Lüderitz, Karibib, Keetmanshoop, St Mary’s Odibo and Gibeon Station.

All Commonwealth War Graves in Namibia are maintained by staff at The Commission’s Branch Office, located in South Africa. All enquiries should be directed to:

Commonwealth War Graves Commission
265 Zircon Street Lyttelton Manor
Postnet Suite 88, Private Bax X1015
Lyttelton Manor, Centurion 0157
South Africa
Tel: +27(0)12 663 7285
E-Mail: saoffice@cwgc.org